

The 7,171 yard, par 72 Great White, a Greg Norman Signature Course, is the only golf course of its kind in the Southeastern United States that utilizes coquina - crushed shells - as the primary design element on every hole. In creating the Great White, Norman blended strategically demanding fairways with hundreds of palm trees and sporadic Scottish-style bunkers. He then routed the course so that water comes into play on 14 of the 18 holes, making for a challenging, but very picturesque layout.
